

IMPACT OF AGRICULTURAL PROMOTION ON ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT HOUSEHOLD IN QUANG HUY COMMUNE, PHU YEN DISTRICT, SON LA PROVINCE

Trinh Hai Van¹, Vi Thi Hong Phuc²

¹Vietnam National University of Forestry

²Trust Media and Consulting Joint Stock Company

SUMMARY

In Vietnam, for many years, agricultural extension has contributed to the development of the household economy, poverty reduction and improvement of living standards for farmers in many regions across the country. The paper presents the analysis results of the current status of operational activities, impacts of extension activities to household economic development in Bo Hoc village, Quang Huy commune, Phu Yen district, Son La province. The study uses the main methods of interview, household economic analysis and selective analysis of secondary documents. The research results show that: in all 3 groups of households (group I, group II, group III) of Bo Hoc village, there are main sources of income from cultivation and animal husbandry. Households have participated in many extension activities such as training, developing skills model... The most obvious impact of extension activities on household economy development is in terms of contribution of skills model to total income of household.

Keywords: Agricultural extension, economy, household, impact, Sonla province.

Ngày nhận bài : 05/01/2019

Ngày phản biện : 12/3/2019

Ngày quyết định đăng : 03/4/2019